NOTIFICATIONS.

Fort St. George, October 8, 1921.

No. 312.—The following is published for general information:—

Question and answer for the meeting of the Council of State on the 15th September 1921.

(No. 115 in the Supplementary List)

Question by the Hon'ble Mr. Zoller Ali Khan:—

"(a) Are the Government aware of the dissemination among the Moslems and other uneducated classes of rumors that the Holy Places of Islam are being occupied and defiled by British troops?"

"(b) If so, what steps do they propose to take to counteract the dissemination of such falsehoods?"

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. George Roper:—

"(a) Yes, the Government are aware that the lying slander that the Holy Places of Islam are being occupied and defiled by British troops is still abroad, and the Moslem rising is an illustration of the tragic consequences of this and similar malicious fabrications among an uneducated people. His wisdom's faculty was demonstrated in Lord Chelmsford's message to the Muslim people of India published in the Gazette Extraordinary of May 19th, 1920. Nothing has since occurred to call for any dissemination of that solemn assurance. The relevant passage is long, but the gravity of the issue demands its repetition in full. It runs as follows:—

"In the countries of Arabia, Iraq and Palestine are situated the Holy Places of Islam in which all Muslims are profoundly concerned. When the war began the Allies gave a solemn pledge that the Holy Places would remain inviolate. This pledge has been observed in the spirit and in the letter during the actual occupation by His Majesty's forces of the territories in which some of the Holy Places are situated and steps have been taken to ensure their strict sanctity. The city of Jerusalem was not attacked as has been stated, but surrounded without violence offered or attempted, after it had been declared in the course of operations against Jerusalem that the city which is in itself sacred to Christians as to Muslims was entered by the victorious British General as foe. The Muslim shrine continues as before in the hands of their own Muslim custodians. In Mesopotamia the Holy Places of Kerbela and Najaf were never attacked and no acts of war were committed there by our troops. The complete faithfulness of His Majesty's soldiers ungrudgingly acknowledged by the inhabitants themselves. The unprovoked occupation of Baghdad as of Jerusalem involved no attack on Holy Places, but was an inevitable incident in the field operations of the war. The shrines of these sacred places of Mesopotamia are now in the custody of a distinguished Muslim who has given a simple assurance that their sanctity will continue to be fully respected. These have constituted an operation whatever is the Moslem and any reports

(a) any offence under this Ordinance;
 (b) any offence specified in this behalf by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the local official Gazette; or
 (c) any attempt to commit or the abetment of any offence hereinbefore mentioned;

committed in respect of that area under clause (b) of section 7 of the Martial Law Ordinance, 1920, by any person captured or arrested after the commencement of this Ordinance, shall be tried by a Military Court to be constituted by him.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Ordinance and of the Martial Law Ordinance, 1920, a Military Court, for the purpose of such trial, shall be constituted in the same manner, and shall exercise the same powers and follow the same procedure as a Summary Criminal Court Martial composed under the Indian Army Act, 1911, for the trial of a person subject to that Act, who had on active service committed an offence under that Act, and the provisions of that Act and of the rules made thereunder shall apply to and govern all such proceedings.

Provided that any person attending the proceedings of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Sessions Judge may be appointed a member of a Military Court under this Ordinance;

Provided, further, that a memorandum of the evidence given at the trial and the statement, if any, made by the accused shall always be recorded.

(3) The finding and sentence of a Military Court under this Ordinance shall require to be confirmed by the commanding officer.

Provided that every sentence of death shall be passed for confirmation by the General Officer Commanding the Division.

(4) The Military Commander may by general or special order in writing, delegate his powers under this section to any officer not below the rank of Field Officer.

5. Subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, the provisions of sections 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 of the Martial Law Ordinance, 1920, shall apply to the proceedings of Military Courts under this Ordinance as they apply to the proceedings of Summary Courts under that Ordinance.

No. 262.

LIST OF QUESTIONS FOR WITNESSES GIVING WRITTEN EVIDENCE FOR THE INDIAN FISCAL COMMISSION.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

The following questions have been framed with a view to facilitating the work of the enquiry to be undertaken by the Fiscal Commission, so far as the President and three Members of the Commission whom he has been able to consult can at present judge of them. Sections A and B are intended to cover the general problems which will arise for consideration in determining the future direction of fiscal policy and in deciding whether India should adopt a policy of Imperial Preference. The remaining sections contain questions designed to elicit not only the opinions but the definite experience of those engaged in the various branches of industry and commerce. In the case of answers to these questions the Commission will attach special importance to evidence bearing on a solid foundation of facts and figures.

2. It is not intended that those who are engaged in industry and commerce should confine themselves to the special sections dealing with their particular business. On the contrary, there are many questions in Sections A and B which require for their adequate consideration an intimate acquaintance with business conditions, and it is hoped that those who have such special knowledge will give the Commission the benefit of their general views on the important and difficult problems that arise.

3. As explained above, the questions are designed to cover the whole field of the enquiry, so far as it can be carried at this stage. It is not therefore expected that each witness should attempt to answer all the questions. If a witness wishes to give his views on any particular aspect of the enquiry which have not been included in the questionnaire, it would be advantageous that such points should be dealt with in a supplementary statement.

4. The Commission is inviting either directly or through Local Government various associations and individuals to forward to them their replies to the questionnaire. The Commission will also be glad to receive replies from any association or individuals not so invited who may wish to represent their views. Copies of the questionnaire can be obtained from the Secretary, Indian Fiscal Commission, Simla, on application.

5. The Commission, assembling in the first half of November and the early receipt of written replies to the questions would greatly facilitate its work. After perusal of the replies the Commission will select certain witnesses for oral examination. To give adequate time for this, it is requested that replies may be despatched as far as possible at least three weeks before the date on which the witness is likely to be examined. The provisional programme of the work of the Commission indicating the approximate dates on which oral evidence will be taken at each centre is as follows:—

QUESTIONS FOR WITNESSES.

A.—General.

The existing Indian Import tariff is based primarily on revenue considerations. It has been modified with a view to reducing first or at the honorable rate of 25 per cent articles the cheap import of which was considered desirable in the interests of the country. These include raw materials, machinery, agricultural implements, dairy appliances and cotton yarn are admitted free. Machinery, iron and steel and railway plant and rolling stock pay only 15 per cent ad valorem. The general rate, under which come the bulk of imports, is 40 per cent ad valorem, while certain articles such as motor-cars, jewellery and silk goods have been specially subjected to excessive duties. There is a duty of 25 per cent. Sugar is charged at a special rate of 25 per cent and high duties are imposed for revenue purposes on tobacco and opium. An excise duty at the rate of 15 per cent is levied on all woven cotton goods manufactured in paper mills in British India.

Export duties imposed for revenue purposes are at present levied on raw and manufactured jute, raw and spun. In 1913 an export duty was also imposed on raw linen and shawls, with a rebate of 1/2 of the duty on shawls and shins exported to any part of the Empire. The object of the duty was partly to foster the Indian weaving industry and partly to maintain a key industry within the Empire.

A. Revenue Tariff.

1. Do you generally favour a policy of free trade or protection? If the former, have you any objection to the imposition of customs duties for the purpose of obtaining revenue?

2. Do you consider that a tariff provides a more or a less suitable form of taxation for India than direct taxes? If direct taxation were necessary would you prefer an increase in customs to an increase in direct taxation?

3. If you accept the principle of imposing a tariff for revenue purposes would you suggest any change in the list of articles taxed or in the rate of taxation?

4. Do you consider that the tariff should continue to be based on existing principles? If so, please explain your views as to the advantages of this policy.

5. What effect do you consider the existing tariff policy has had on Indian industries in the past, and what effects on Indian industries would you anticipate from a continuance of this policy in the future?

6. When a duty is imposed on an article imported from abroad do you approve in theory or in practice of imposing in return duty on the same article manufactured in India?

7. If you favour the imposition of custom duties is it as the ground that no protection of any kind should be afforded to the home manufacturer or against the foreign manufacturer?

8. Can duties be imposed without raising the price to the consumer?

9. Do you consider that the tariff should be framed primarily with the object of fostering Indian industries? If so, please explain the advantages anticipated.

A. Protective Tariff.

10. Do you look forward to India becoming in time independent of other countries in regard to all her requirements of manufactured goods, or do you consider that there are certain manufactured goods for which she is always likely to be dependent on other countries? If you hold the latter view can you furnish a list of articles for which India will have to depend on other countries?

11. Would you, for the purpose of developing Indian industries, favour the imposition of protective duties on all imported manufactures or only on some?

12. If you favour the protection of some industries only, which would you select for protection and on what principle?

13. Do you consider it desirable to establish new industries by protection? If so, on what principles would you select them?

14. Would you confine protection to industries which are likely after a period to be able to face foreign competition without such assistance, or would you anticipate the establishment of industries which would be likely to require continuous assistance?

15. Would you grant special protection against foreign goods imported by such measures as bounties, drawbacks, subsidies or transport concessions? If so, what means would you suggest for ascertaining the exact facts and what measures would you advocate to afford the necessary protection?

16. What is your attitude towards hand industries and in particular towards the cotton handloom industry? Do you wish them to be maintained or not?

17. Is there any danger in India of protection leading to combination among the protected manufacturers in order to maintain a quasi-monopoly price? If so, what safeguards would you suggest to counteract the effect of such a combination?

18. Do you think that, if a protective policy is adopted, it is likely that British or foreign industrial firms will endeavour to establish themselves in India in order to get the benefit of the protective tariff? If so, what would be your attitude towards such a movement?

19. In countries under a protective system it sometimes happens that producers of raw material ask for protection, while manufacturers who use the raw material oppose them, wishing to get their raw material as cheaply as possible. In the same way a demand of the spinning industry for protection is sometimes opposed by the weaving industry whose interest lies in cheap yarn. Do you think that conflicts of interest of this nature would be likely to arise in India and then if they did arise there would be any difficulty in adjusting them?

20. If an export duty is imposed, do you consider that ultimately the whole or any part of it is passed on to the consumer in a rise of price?

21. If a protective duty exists a rise of price, is that rise likely to be permanent or not?

22. Would you be willing to accept an increase in price to the Indian consumer for the sake of developing Indian industries?

23. In considering the above questions would you have regard to the point whether the protected article was a necessity of life? If so, what articles would you place as necessities?

24. If you held that an increase in the tariff rates would tend to increase the cost of living in India do you think the increased cost would be covered wholly or in part by a rise in wages or salary for

- (a) the industrial wage earners,
- (b) the agricultural wage earners,
- (c) the whole classes.

Effect of Protection on Raw jute.

25. What effect do you consider a policy of protection would have on the foreign trade of India and on the general commercial position and prospects of the country?

Use of Tariff for Revenue Imp.

26. Do you consider that the existence of a tariff which might be used as an instrument for bargaining with other countries would be advantageous to India?

27. If so, would you recommend the adoption of general and special tariffs, the special being applied to countries from which India receives her raw materials?

28. If the tariff is to be used in this way, would it be necessary to make it more detailed than it is at present?

29. If a policy of protection were adopted, would you recommend any kind of government expenditure for compensating the owners of mature industries for passing from this to that and for the periodical readjustment of tariff rates?

30. What is your view of the proper function of export duties? Do you think that they should be imposed only for the purpose of raising revenue or do you think that they may be applied for other purposes also?

31. When do you consider generally the effect of export duties on the export trade? Can they in certain circumstances be imposed without injury to the trade? If so, in the case of what trade in India would this be done, and to what extent?

32. Would you consider it advisable to impose an export duty on a raw material in order to encourage its marketing in India either for purposes of manufacturing or for any other purpose? If so, please mention materials in which you would recommend such action and mention whether it would have any effect on the producers of the raw material and the consumers they would produce.

33. Do you consider that it would be of advantage to India to impose an export duty on food-stuffs with a view to restricting their export and thereby lowering Indian prices and the cost of living? What effect do you consider such duties would be likely to have on the agricultural interests and on the quantity of foodstuffs produced in India?

34. Would you consider it advisable to impose an export duty on a raw material in retaliation for an import duty imposed by a foreign country on the manufactured article? If so, please mention cases in which you would recommend such action.

II.—IMPERIAL PREFERENCES.

At present reduced duties are levied by Canada, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand on a number of articles imported from the United Kingdom. In Canada, Australia and New Zealand the preferential duties are usually about  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the full duty, though the fractions vary considerably both above and below this figure. The South African preferences are a small one and is usually only a rebate of  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of duties.

The United Kingdom has recently established preferential rates which are granted to the whole Empire on nearly all articles on which import duties are levied in the United Kingdom. The preferential rate is at a rate either  $\frac{1}{2}$  or  $\frac{3}{4}$  of the full rate.

A number of the smaller colonies grant preferential rates to the United Kingdom, and there are also various agreements between different parts of the Empire for mutual preferences.

The countries which at present levy a lower rate of duty on certain goods imported from India are compared with the general duty levied on imports from foreign countries are the United Kingdom, Canada and New Zealand.

The articles imported to India on which such lower duties are levied in the United Kingdom are tea, coffee and tobacco. These are all charged  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the full rate. In the case of Canada the only Indian imports of any amount are tea, coffee and raw hides. There is no duty on raw hides or tea which the United Kingdom levies at  $\frac{1}{2}$  rate per lb. as against the rate of 30 cents an lb. imported from countries outside the Empire. New Zealand imports from India a small quantity of tea which pays  $\frac{1}{2}$  per lb. as against the rate of  $\frac{1}{2}$  charged on tea imported from outside the Empire, and a small quantity of coffee which are charged  $\frac{1}{2}$  per lb. instead of  $\frac{3}{4}$ . Other imports from India into New Zealand are livestock, part of the fruit and various special provisions.

35. Are you in general favourable to the idea of Imperial Preferences? If so, do you think that India would be justified in giving any appreciable economic loss for the sake of Imperial Preferences?

36. Would you differentiate between the policy to be adopted towards the United Kingdom and towards other parts of the Empire?

37. Do you anticipate any material loss of goods to India from a system of Imperial Preferences? In particular, do you anticipate any likelihood of establishment by foreign countries against India?

38. If you are in favour of preferences, can you give a list of articles imported into India and exported from India to which the policy of preference might be applied? What would you consider a reasonable average rate of preference?

39. What principles would you apply in selecting articles to which preferences might be given on imports into India? Would you give preference in the case of goods which India exports in time to manufacturing or actually for home use, or only in the case of goods for which India is likely to have to depend on other sources?

40. If preferences were given by raising the import duties on goods coming from foreign countries, the resulting value being contained in British goods, do you anticipate that this would cause the price to the consumer to rise?

41. Do you think that the system of Imperial Preferences is likely to increase or diminish the total volume of Indian exports or imports, or is also appreciable the proportion between them and thus affect the balance of trade?

42. Do you consider that the partial or complete diversion of trade from foreign countries which might result from Imperial Preferences would have any effect on India's general trade position?

III.—MANUFACTURES.

43. Are you interested in any industry and if so in what capacity?

44. Do you consider that there are material advantages for the industry in India? If so, please enumerate them.

45. Do you consider that the industry is essential to the national security or of substantial importance to the economic prosperity of India?

46. What is the state of organization and equipment of the industry in India as compared with that in other countries?

47. On what markets does the industry depend for the sale of its output?

48. What foreign competition (including for this purpose competition from the United Kingdom or other parts of the Empire) does the industry have to meet—

(a) in the Indian market;

(b) elsewhere?

Does the competition extend to all or only to particular classes of goods, and does it vary with different classes of goods?

48. Apart from operations of organization and equipment are there any special circumstances, natural or artificial, which give the competing country an advantage?

49. Do you think that the industry needs protection? If so, what rate of duty do you consider is necessary to protect? Please give in detail the facts and figures on which you base your conclusion.

50. Do you think it likely that if protection is granted, the industry will eventually reach a level of development which would enable it to face foreign competition without the aid of protection, or do you think the industry will always remain to a greater or less degree in need of protection?

51. Does the industry ever suffer from dumping? If so, do you wish to suggest any remedy?

52. Is competition from other countries necessitated by depressed exchange in those countries?

53. If so, is this phenomenon likely to be temporary?

54. Do you consider that any remedy is required? If so, what would you suggest?

55. Has the industry received any benefit from the protective enhancement of the tariff beginning in 1912? Can you describe the effects, so far as you are aware?

56. Do you think the industry has suffered in any way from export duties? If so, please give in detail the facts and figures from which this conclusion is drawn.

57. Is the finished product of the industry used as the raw material for any other industry? If so, in what cases?

58. Does the industry use as its raw material the finished product of any other industry which is established or is likely to be established in India?

59. Would you prefer a system under which all industries would receive a more or less uniform protection, or one under which industries receive varying amounts of protection in accordance with their needs?

D.—EXPORT DUTIES.

60. These questions are intended partly directed towards, but also for those who profess for export.

61. What articles do you export and to what countries?

62. Are you interested in any of the articles as which export duties are levied? If so, what do you consider has been the effect of those duties?

63. Do you recommend the levying, reduction or abolition of any of the existing export duties?

64. Is the Indian export trade in any way hampered by high import duties imposed in several countries? If so, do you consider any action feasible or desirable?

65. Do you think the extent of any articles or which you deal would be stimulated by a preferential rate granted by the United Kingdom or any of the Dominions or Colonies? If so, what would you consider the minimum rate of preference for such articles which would act as an appreciable effect?

66. Do you consider that the heavy duties at present levied on certain imports from India into the United Kingdom or Canada or New Zealand, as compared with the general duty levied on imports from countries outside the Empire, have had or are likely to have any beneficial effects on the Indian trade in those articles?

67. Do you think that any foreign country whose trade might suffer by a system of Imperial Preferences would be able without injury to itself, or would be likely even at the cost of injury to itself, to protect the Indian export trade in that country? If so, what are the Indian exports that might suffer?

68. If owing to a system of Imperial Preferences the imports from certain foreign countries diminished, do you consider that this would tend to have any effect on the volume of Indian exports to those countries?

69. If so, would there be an alternative outlet for those exports, without economic disadvantage, within the British Empire or in other foreign countries?

E.—IMPORT DUTIES.

70. What articles do you import and from what countries?

71. Have you observed any change in your trade in particular articles from the year 1912 onwards, which may be ascribed in part or in whole to the change in the rate of import duty?

72. Do you consider that an appreciable increase in the present tariff rate would seriously diminish the volume of imports? Can you give instances of any important commodities in which such a result is likely to occur?

73. What would you expect to be the effect on the largest trade of a preference given to British goods—

(a) if the preference were given by maintaining the existing rate for foreign goods and reducing it for British goods?

(b) if the preference were given by maintaining the existing rate for British goods and enhancing it for foreign goods; and

(c) if the preference were given by a combination of (a) and (b), i.e., raising the rate for foreign goods and reducing it for British goods?

74. If Imperial Preferences were introduced would you recommend that the same preference on the same goods should be granted to all countries parts of the Empire, or would you treat each part of the Empire separately, taking into account the questions of what reciprocal benefits India would receive?

75. Do you think it likely that a system of Imperial Preferences would diminish or increase the total import of any class of goods, or would it merely tend to alter the proportion in which that total is derived from foreign and British countries?

76. Would any undesirable results follow from lowering the rates of Indian Imports from Switzerland to British countries?

77. If you are in favour of Imperial Preferences, to what articles would you be prepared to extend a preference if imported from the Empire or particular parts of the Empire, and what would you suggest as the amount of that preference?

18. Do you approve of the system of ad valorem customs duties, or would you prefer that the duty should be specific, i.e., a fixed charge for a given weight or measure? If you prefer the latter system, what are your views on the necessity of readjusting the duties from time to time?

F.—RETAIL TRADE.

19. What are the principal imported goods in which you deal?

20. To what extent are changes in the retail prices of imported goods from 1894 onwards attributable to the increases in the import duties during that period? Can you give details of any such changes in retail prices with which you are familiar?

21. In the case of any important classes of imports are you able to give any figures showing in what extent freights disbursements as prices rise?

22. Have the increases in the tariff since 1816 affected your trade in any way?

23. What would you expect to be the effect on your trade if imports from the United Kingdom or from the whole Empire were taxed at existing rates, while the duty on imports from foreign countries was raised?

8. Under ordinary circumstances all Assistants, when they have special claims from previous training and experience elsewhere, will enter the department in the lowest class on the certificate of the Head of the Department that the Assistant is recommended there fully deserved it by the intelligence and zeal with which their duties have been performed.

9. Promotions to the grade of Superintendent will depend on qualifications and merit and on the existence of vacancies in that grade. While local experience and having most always held a very prominent place in selecting the position in the promotion of Assistants, it must be distinctly understood that mere seniority of years is, consequently, by no means a right and steady decision. In duty, given no claim to promotion into the higher grade of the staff of the Survey.

10. The leave, leave allowances, and pensions of officers of the Department are governed by the provisions of the Civil Service Regulations applicable thereto. These regulations are liable to be modified by the Government of India from time to time.
